Advantage Preschool

Dear Parents,

I wanted to fill you all in on some of the changes that will be occurring with the preschool.

First, I have attached our newest Daily Schedule. We have adjusted the times of the schedule, bumping everything up a little earlier. The main reason for this is to move our lunch time up, and thus our nap time. I'm finding that our nap time was getting to be too late in the afternoon, and I believe it was interfering with bedtimes, as well as making it more difficult for children to fall asleep as they were getting overtired. Hopefully, this will help. If you have any concerns, please feel free to voice them. I also wanted to make sure that it is understood that this is a "general" schedule. I look at it as my "goal" for the day, but since we are dealing with 2-4 year olds, things often crop up and we have to adjust the schedule, or we run behind, etc. That is the nature of a preschool. However, this is the timeframes we strive for daily.

I also wanted to let everyone know that we will begin the process of moving things into the lower level of the preschool starting next week. This means that the next two weeks will really be transitional weeks for us, as we try to get everything situated the way we want. Please talk with your child about the changes that will be occurring, and how exciting it will be to move a lot of our things downstairs where we will have more room. We will also be napping downstairs, as we will no longer use the 2nd floor bedroom. Please bear with us during this process, as we may not be following the schedule or doing as many activities during this time, especially the first week, as we focus on preparing our new space. Again, please feel free to speak with me regarding any questions or concerns you may have.

Finally, I also wanted to relay our newest drop-in hours. These too are very fluid, and can change as parent schedules change, and/or students enter or leave the program. Always feel free to ask and I can give you the most updated days/times. They have just changed again with a change in schedule for a student, and are:

Monday-Friday: Half day openings- mornings until 1pm

Mon. Tues. and Thurs.: full day openings

Snow Much Fun!!!
